

SALUTING THE FLAG--GRAND PARADE OF SCHOOL CHILDREN AT RECREATION PARK

WHAT IS A LOBBYIST?

PRESIDENT WILSON'S declaration that an "insidious lobby" in Washington is attempting to defeat the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill, now before the senate, has raised the question, what is a lobbyist?

Before the senate investigating committee, Senator Townsend of Michigan, defined a lobbyist as follows:

"In the broad sense, a lobbyist is a person whose business it is to promote or prevent legislation on some particular subject.

"In the narrowest sense used by the president in his recent published statement, and as understood generally, by the public, a lobbyist is a person whose business it is to secure or prevent some particular legislation by the use of means which by intelligent, right-minded men are considered improper; such as the offer of money or other things of value; extending favors or entertainment to legislators; by insidious threats of political opposition; by holding out prospects of political rewards, and by withholding patronage or by using any other device calculated and intended to induce the lawmaker to do what he knows he ought not to do and what is contrary to his ideas of what is proper for him to do as a representative of his constituents."

Then came Senator Townsend's startling charge before the committee, that President Wilson is the king of lobbyists, because he is using his high office and, it is reported, patronage, to secure votes for the tariff bill in the senate.

It is a notorious fact that Washington, when congress is in session, and every state capital, when the legislature is in session, has scores of men and often women, to approach and talk with members of congress and legislatures, for the purpose of presenting their side of a proposition. Some states have enacted strict anti-lobbying laws.

Open argument by these paid lobbyists is welcomed; but the most dangerous thing to the country and the member of congress, is the insidious lobby employing dinners, theatre parties, and secret flattery to win the favor of some public man.

Senators have been known to have the mortgage on their Washington homes paid by certain interests seeking legislation.

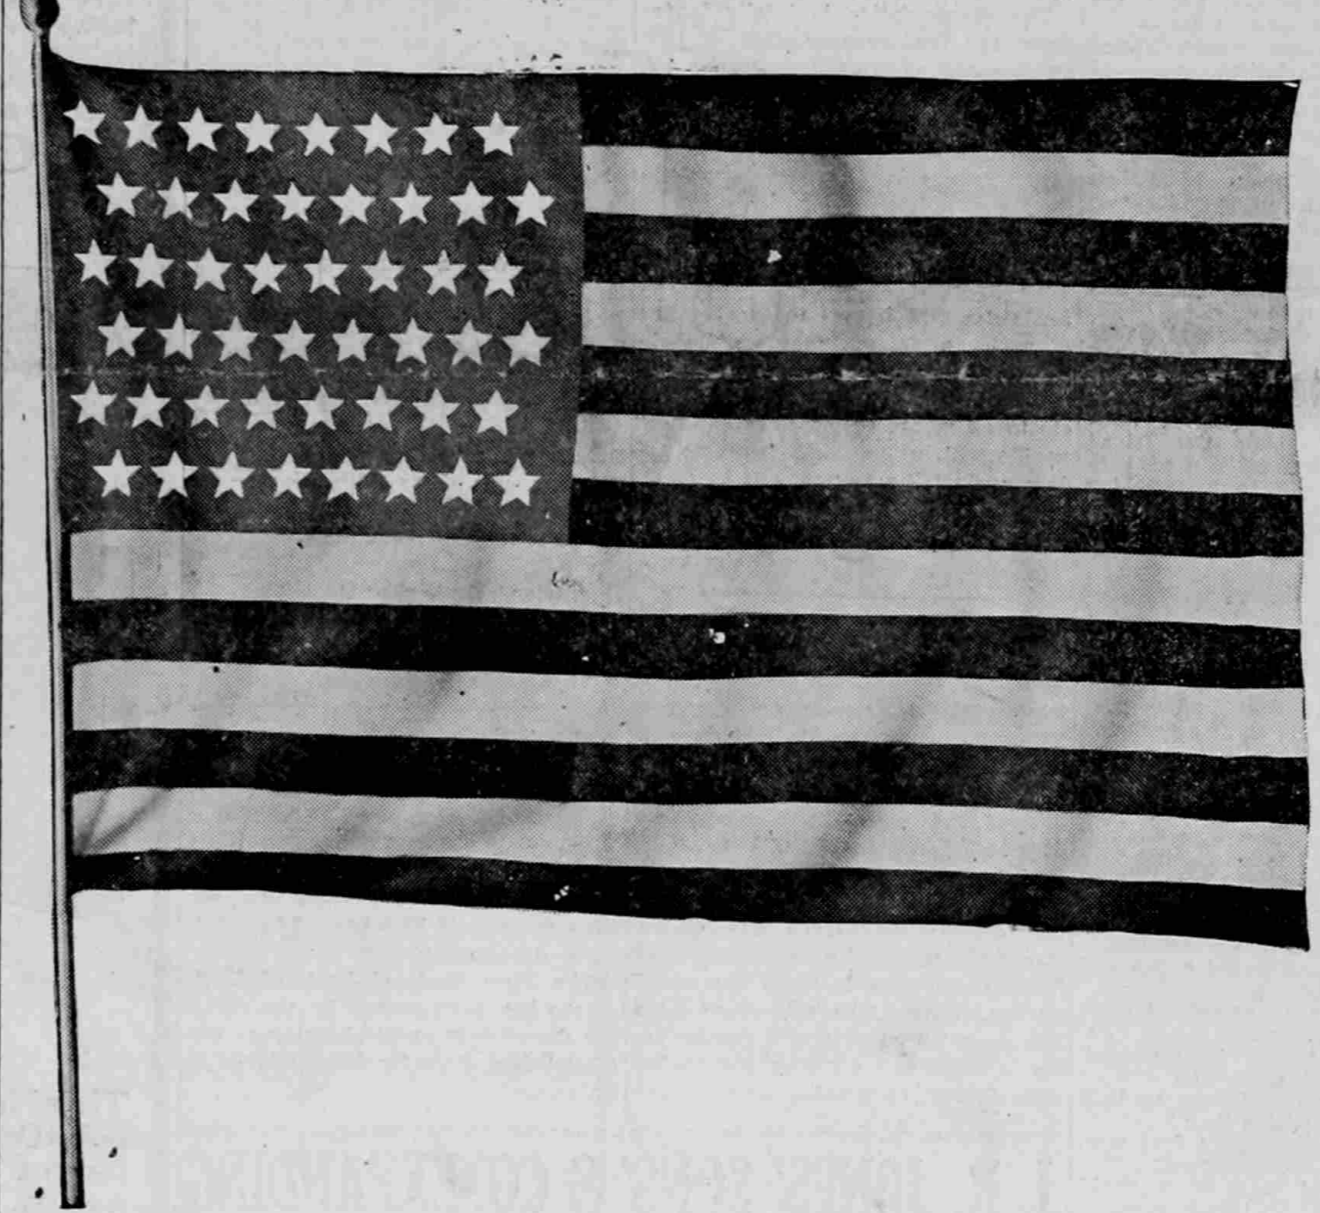

It was shown by Hearst, two years ago, that Senator Foraker of Ohio, received money from the Standard Oil company; and many senators have been known to secretly represent railroads and other great interests.

In Washington today, there are hundreds of men employed by the big concerns of the country, to keep track of new measures, button-hole legislators and seek to change the minds of the members.

The investigation showed that several senators had financial interests in industrial concerns seeking a lowering of the tariff.

Men from Michigan who were among the earlier ones to be questioned by the investigating committee, were representatives of the beet sugar interests. There were Warren, Hathaway and Rowley, all seeking to break up Presi-

"OLD GLORY"

Progression and Reaction

THE ENTIRE history of civilization shows a constant struggle between the two great contending forces of progression and reaction. At times this struggle becomes violent and this latter condition is largely due to ignorance of economic laws. There is no need of this in a republic. Here no pomp of eager array in chambers of royalty awaits the birth of boy or girl to wield a hereditary sceptre whenever death or revolution shall pour on the oil of coronation. We know no sceptre save the will of a constitutional majority. In that urn should be gathered and sacredly recorded the conscience, the judgment and the intelligence of all. This is the great advantage possessed by us, and here may be found the assurance that the path of evolution will never be marked with blood.

These two great contending forces are represented by two distinct types of character. The optimist and the pessimist are ever with us, and the one radiates cheer and hope while the other looks upon every innovation with a suspicious eye. The optimist looks to the rising sun while the other regretfully lingers upon his parting rays. The former sees the bright vision of a sweeter future, while the latter clings to the ideas of the fathers long after they have been outgrown. The ancient Greek and Roman loved to revert to the golden age of Saturn, while the pessimist of today mourns for the fleeting vision of an age that allowed a few men to govern and exploit the many. With nasal trill and doleful accent he declares that religion is decadent, conduct is reverting into barbarous ways while crime and pauperism are increasing. The optimist denies the allegation and asserts that the fires of true religion never burned so brightly in the human heart as today. The dogmas of churches are gone but in their place may be found the sweeter religion of kindness taught by the gentle Nazarene. The best days of humanity lie in the future and not in the past. As one swallow does not make a summer neither does one great crime or act of economic injustice prove that the race is degenerating. When the Titanic went down the entire civilized world was convulsed with horror and had it been necessary untold thousands would have been poured out for the survivors. Never was the human heart more filled with the spirit dent Wilson's free sugar proposition.

If congressmen and legislators are honest and are seeking to do what is best for the country, a lobbyist does not harm. But the difficulty is that so many members of congress and of state legislatures, are weak enough to be influenced by the "insidious lobbyist."

President Wilson has done a good service to the country by arousing the public to the real condition of affairs.

Lobbyists should be registered, and prohibited from dining and wining members of congress. The latter should be prohibited from owning any stock or bonds in any corporation seeking special favors at the hands of congress.

Opinions may differ as to the right of a president to influence members of congress for or against any bill. All presidents have done it, and President Wilson is no exception. Senator Townsend made no new discovery.

The only real and effective cure for this evil of lobbying, is the election of honest men to seats in the halls of legislation—men who cannot be swerved from the right by social, business or political inducements whatever.

FLAG DAY.

TODAY is Flag Day—a day set apart to remind us of the true meaning and significance of the stars and stripes.

Since Betsy Ross built the first flag of the United States, a great nation of forty-nine states with ninety million people has developed into a great republic with countless resources, with billions of wealth and a standard of civilization and rapidity of progress that is the marvel of the whole world.

But after all, this republic of ours, founded on democracy and self-rule, is still an experiment. It is not yet beyond the danger line, and will not be until the gulf between the classes and the masses is lessened; and the struggle for existence is decreased.

Old Glory stands for union and strength; but the union must be founded on brotherhood and co-operation, else the boasted strength will disappear.

The flag should be an inspiration to all to sacrifice for the common good and to live real lives of service.

Salute the flag whenever you see it.

HEREDITY AND CRIME.

ANDREW TOMPKINS, the fiend who ran riot in the vicinity of Kalamazoo, robbing, shooting and assaulting, had a criminal father and a mother of low order. His father served time for a serious crime; and now the son, sent to Jackson by Judge Adams in 1907, is following in the footsteps of the father.

When in prison Tompkins wrote a letter to a prominent Kalamazoo woman, asking her influence to secure a pardon for him. This was eight years ago. Tompkins stated in this letter, that if he was not pardoned, he might, when released at the end of his term, be so revengeful and bitter as to take it out on society by shooting and assaulting.

Lock him up when recaptured that he may do no more harm.

PRINCE VICTOR

A Play in Five Acts, by Roberta Williams
Patterned after the Elizabethan Drama

COPYRIGHTED BY ROBERTA WILLIAMS

ACT III.

Scene 1. Same.
(Victor, pacing the court yard.)
Vic—Aand how should I dare hope she e'er could love me?
There's Amorel and Averic,—two bad men,—
An evil in their plans, I full, believe
As any wicked schemers that ever lived.
She cannot be ensnared by them, methinks.
And yet she's but a child,—all innocent,—
She does not know the evils in the world.
The worst is this,—the good king hath all faith in them,—respects their fathers and their realms. I hope he be not long blind to their faults.
But she in innocence, may fall into
This mire, and think he loves the one or other,
For they have charms might well catch unaware
One who is innocent of evil plots.—
And then there's Benefex. Methinks he loves her. He seems a man quite worthy of her love.
From all I've seen,—I know him not, full well. She's child and yet she's woman. I do think that she might differentiate—might love
This Benefex before the two.
But what of me, forsooth?
Ah! if true love
Doth stand a show with base, I'll have my chance,
And if two loves be true,
doth not my one
Stand equal chance with his that's also true?
Before this evening's gone I'll have my chance,
And see if I may somehow wake her heart,
That she may love me.—
Ah, bright sun that shines,
Tomorrow, I shall know.
(Exit Victor.)

Scene 2. (Enter ladies Estelle and Paula.)
Est.—I certain dropped it somewhere and methinks I had it here when we were listening
To the fateful words of the old prophethess.
Paul.—We'll search for it. Where stood you then, my lady?
Est.—Ah, here it is. I should have grieved to lose it. Is't not a pretty trinket?
See inside.—
A locket,—with a picture I'll not show
For half a kingdom. Art thou curious, now?
Paul.—Indeed, yes. You do wrong to lead me on
And then to thwart my natural desire.
Est.—Perhaps I'll show thee later. Who comes hither?
Methinks I hear strong voices not far off.
(Enter Avaric and Amorel.)
Amor.—Good even to you, (Aside.) The potion! Doth she sleep?
Where is the princess? (Aloud.) Why should two fair maids
Whose beauties vie with Nature's, here alone
Enjoy the twilight shadows 'mid the flowers?
Paul.—We did enjoy it well until you came.
But now e'en better.
Amor.—Dost thou speak true, lady?
Est.—Why should she not? What ever is more tiresome
To us with nature's social, than mere quiet?
The princess loves this dull life, but alack!
We seek more brightness from a life at court.
Amor.—The court is dull perhaps, but very beauteous.
Look on the roses,—see how fair they are.
But meant to pluck and grace a woman's breast.
What color would you have?
Paul.— Oh, pray you, sir,
Choose for us. Lord Avaric for Estelle,

Thou, my Lord, for me.
I choose the red.
They're like the crimson blush on woman's cheek,
And like her bright red lips, where kisses bud
For men who're fortunate.
A pretty speech,
My Lord. And Avaric?
The yellow roses.
Are they not like bright gold, all yellow, glowing
In the sunlight, pouring down upon them here?
Wilt thou, Lady Starlight?
Indeed, I will.
Come, let us walk together
A little space. Methinks we'll find each other Congenial friends.
(Exeunt Avar. and Est.)
Amor.—My lady, is the princess Carissima, near by? Hast thou just left her?
Paul.—Oh, thou dost wish the princess? It is ever just so. All seek a child, because her name
Is one with royalty. Is she not dull
And rather cold for thy regard, my lord?
Amor.—I had somewhat to speak with her, my lady.
But true, thy cheeks are warmer red than hers,
And I care not for her while thou art here.
Paul.—Ah! thy mind is fickle, Amorel.
But hear me,—there's the strangest creature come,
Appeared all unannounced and suddenly,
And with the princess spoke, who pitted her
For she seemed all awery.
And Carissima
id lead her in, where she lay down to rest
And fell asleep. Carissima is with her.
Amor.—(Aside.) My plan is frustrated! Now what next to do?
(To Paula.) What sort of creature was it came, my lady?
Paul.—I saw her not, but heard of her.—Ah! I see,—
Here come Prince Victor and Carissima.
Amor.—Shall we not leave? Come, let us go this way.—
Paul.—Nay, let us stay and you shall ask her all
That you desire. And then perhaps Prince Victor
Will sing for us. Let's stay and ask it of him.
(Enter Vic and Car.)
Vic.—She is but tired. Thou needest not to stay.
'Twere best that thou shouldst leave her to the others.
Ah! Amorel?—and Lady Paula—here?
Sir! I think thy friend Avaric wishes thee.
Will go to him? (Looking him straight in eye.)
Amor.— I go! (Exit Amor.)
Vic.—My lady, wilt thou walk with us a while?
Paul.—Nay, Victor. Two were company, 'tis said.
I'll go within.
Car.—We'd have thee join us too, if thou wilt?
Paul.—Nay, my lady, I must go.
Good even to you both.
Vic. and Car.—Good even to you.
(Exit Paula.)

Scene 3. Same.
Vic.—I'd think no more of this poor creature, princess. 't has taken quite thy strength, I fear. Thy cheeks
Are paler than their wont.
Wilt thou not leave
The question all to me and worry not?
I think I understand what kind of man
This Amorel hath proved.
And if thou wish
I'll deal with him so he'll not trouble thee
Nor others. But just now,
wilt thou not rest?
I'll tell thee of a world that's free from care,
If thou wilt promise to close fast thine eyes
And dream, and think of naught but what I say.
Car.—Ah! thou art kind, and I confess it is An affair I know not how to cope with and
It hath troubled me,—oh!

MISS ROBERTA WILLIAMS, Member of the Graduating Class of Kalamazoo College.

vastly much and sore.
(Seats herself.)
Now tell me of the carefree lands where naught
In evil,—as you sang for us today.
It made me quite a child again,—and oftentimes,
I feel that I am growing very old,
And cares and worries trouble me.

GETTYSBURG COMMISSION.

Editor Progressive Herald: Replying to yours of the 26th, I beg to advise you that the situation in regard to the attendance of the veterans from Michigan at Gettysburg on July 1 to 3, is in the opinion of this commission very doubtful.

From applications for transportation on file with this commission it appears that there are nearly 900 veterans in Michigan who are survivors of the great battle fought there fifty years ago and that every one is anxious to attend the coming celebration and reunion.

The appropriation is totally inadequate for the transportation of this number, and as the railroads have not advised this commission that all may be carried and the excess over the appropriation carried by them to be adjusted by our next legislature we are tied.

Telephone messages received by us from the representative of the New York lines, today, indicate that the roads are in doubt as to the legality of such an arrangement upon their part, and until this is so arranged as to enable us to grant orders for tickets to all whose applications are now on file with us we shall issue no orders against the appropriation.

Very truly,
GEO. W. STONE,
Chairman.

REV. C. T. PATCHELL.

Congressman Woodruff of Bay City, says:
"Candidly I cannot now recall a minister who during his residence in Bay City did more practical Christianity than Rev. C. T. Patchell. He is one of the strongest ministers we ever had, and his work still stands in Bay City as a model of civic and religious undertaking. He was a leader and drew about him a clientele of strong thinkers and exercised a potent influence for good in every line of endeavor. I trust Charlotte appreciates him as a Christian and a gentleman. He is both and dignifies his profession, exalted as it is."

J. R. JONES' SONS' & CO. EXPANDING

The enterprising firm of J. R. Jones' Sons & Co. is always progressive.

The proposed improvements in the west room of the second floor of their big department store call for decorations of the richest and most costly character. The entire room, wood-work, ceilings, walls, furniture, and display cabinets will all be new.

The garments will be shown in new mahogany and glass clothing cabinets. The wrapping counter will be moved to a more central location, between the center and the west rooms.

A beautiful new ceiling will be decorated in ivory shades and panelled with massive solid mahogany beams. The very latest system in store lighting will be installed which will give a rich, strong light without the blinding effects so troublesome in the old method.

In beautiful contrast with the solid mahogany furniture and woodwork a heavy light blue velvet carpet will be laid the entire length of the room. The red mahogany light blue carpet and ivory tinted ceiling will make a striking effect.

The present elevator, which runs through this room, will be entirely enclosed in glass, making it much more attractive and convenient.

Both sides of the room will present

A CORRECTION.

Last week, in Cable-Nelson's advertisement, the publishers of the Herald by mistake used the wrong cut of a piano. The advertisement is here repeated with the right cut. The Cable-Nelson Company is one of the most reliable piano concerns in the country, and does as it agrees. The error in their advertisement of last week was due entirely to the publishers of the Herald.

THE RAGTIME MUSE.

Ballad of Honest Labor.
Oh, no, I don't object to work!
Give me a job and I won't shirk.
Of course I'll work but at my trade
With proper tools—and fairly paid.

Give me a rod, give me a reel,
A book of flies, a proper creel,
A minnow bucket, landing net,
Some rubbers to keep out the wet.
A generous luncheon in a pail,
My pipe, a store of bottled ale,
A shady pool or lake or brook,
A perfect day, a charming book.

Away from all the haunts of men,
But whence I can return again
By nightfall to a friendly inn,
Where I may sit and wag my chin.

Retailing to admiring jays
The triumphs of my fishing days—
Oh, for such work as this I'm strong!
I'd do it faithfully and long.

Nay, friend, don't offer me a job
At something else, I would not rob
Some poor man of his fitting task—
A fishing job is all I ask.

Billy Sunday Says Old Man Solomon Was 33rd Degree Sport

Billy Sunday, the baseball evangelist who is now on his sixth week of revivals in South Bend, in speaking of King Solomon says the wise old boy of Biblical history was a 33rd degree sport. Here's Billy's idea of what "Sol" was.
"Solomon was a 33rd degree sport who took all the degrees of his day and invented some new ones."
"He was not only born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but it had a diamond sunburst handle to it."
"He not only drank the well of knowledge dry, but he pulled out the pump. He was so anxious to know more that he gave his teachers nervous prostration."
"After he found out what wealth and knowledge were, he said: 'Now let's see what pleasure can do,' and the way he went to it would make a baseball fan at the world's series look like a clothing store dummy."
"He burned up the world of pleasure and became melancholy because he couldn't find anything else to entertain him."
"He loved many strange women and then he struck out. He had Brigham Young, the Mormon, backed off the boards for wives."
"But finally a wheel of the chariot he speeded on came off and he went down in the dust. Then he cried out with all his heart as a warning to followers on the same road: 'Go back! The world is mockery! All is vanity and vexation of spirit!'"
"King Solomon could have hired Morgan to black his boots, Carnegie to mow his lawn and Rockefeller for a chauffeur."

Greatest Piano Sale

In the History of Michigan

IS NOW ON!

We are throwing eight hundred guaranteed high-grade, new and beautiful pianos on the market through our branch stores in Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Our Board of Directors met in Chicago and decided to sell these pianos at cost of materials through our retail stores. Our Kalamazoo store is crowded with these new and beautiful pianos.

There are an even one hundred instruments in stock as this is written. The standard prices in all parts of the United States range from $250.00 to $450.00 on pianos and $550.00 to $1,000.00 on player pianos.

OPENING SALE SUNSET PARK

Between West Street and Bronson Boulevard

Starts Saturday Noon

Low Prices. Easy Payments. No Taxes or Interest until 1915.

There are two methods of making prices on lots in new additions, one—the method of the railroads and some dealers—"charge all the traffic will bear;" the other—OUR METHOD—charge only a fair price, in exact PROPORTION TO COST, that will yield only a fair quick profit to the seller and give THE BUYER the FULL BENEFIT of the BIG INCREASE in value due to development and increase in population.

Sunrise Heights, just opposite Sunset Park, was opened two years ago, and under OUR METHOD of price making the lowest lots at that time are worth more than $100 advance now, and higher priced lots are worth on up to $400.00 or more advance.

Many sales have been made by purchasers at big advances. One lot bought for $540 sold for $700 within A FEW DAYS. Another bought for $600 sold for $700, and two bought for $360 each sold for $450 each in SIXTY days. Another bought for $450 sold in a short time for $600, and a second time for $650. One bought for $400 has sold for $800. Many owners who bought at $350 have refused $500.

SUNSET PARK Prices are not higher than SUNRISE HEIGHTS prices two years ago—AND THE IMPROVEMENTS ARE GREATER. The BUYER will get THE BENEFIT FOR THE BIG INCREASE IN VALUES.

Take West Street car—best line in the city—gets all the new cars first and has no railroads to cross. Get off at end of the line top of the hill.

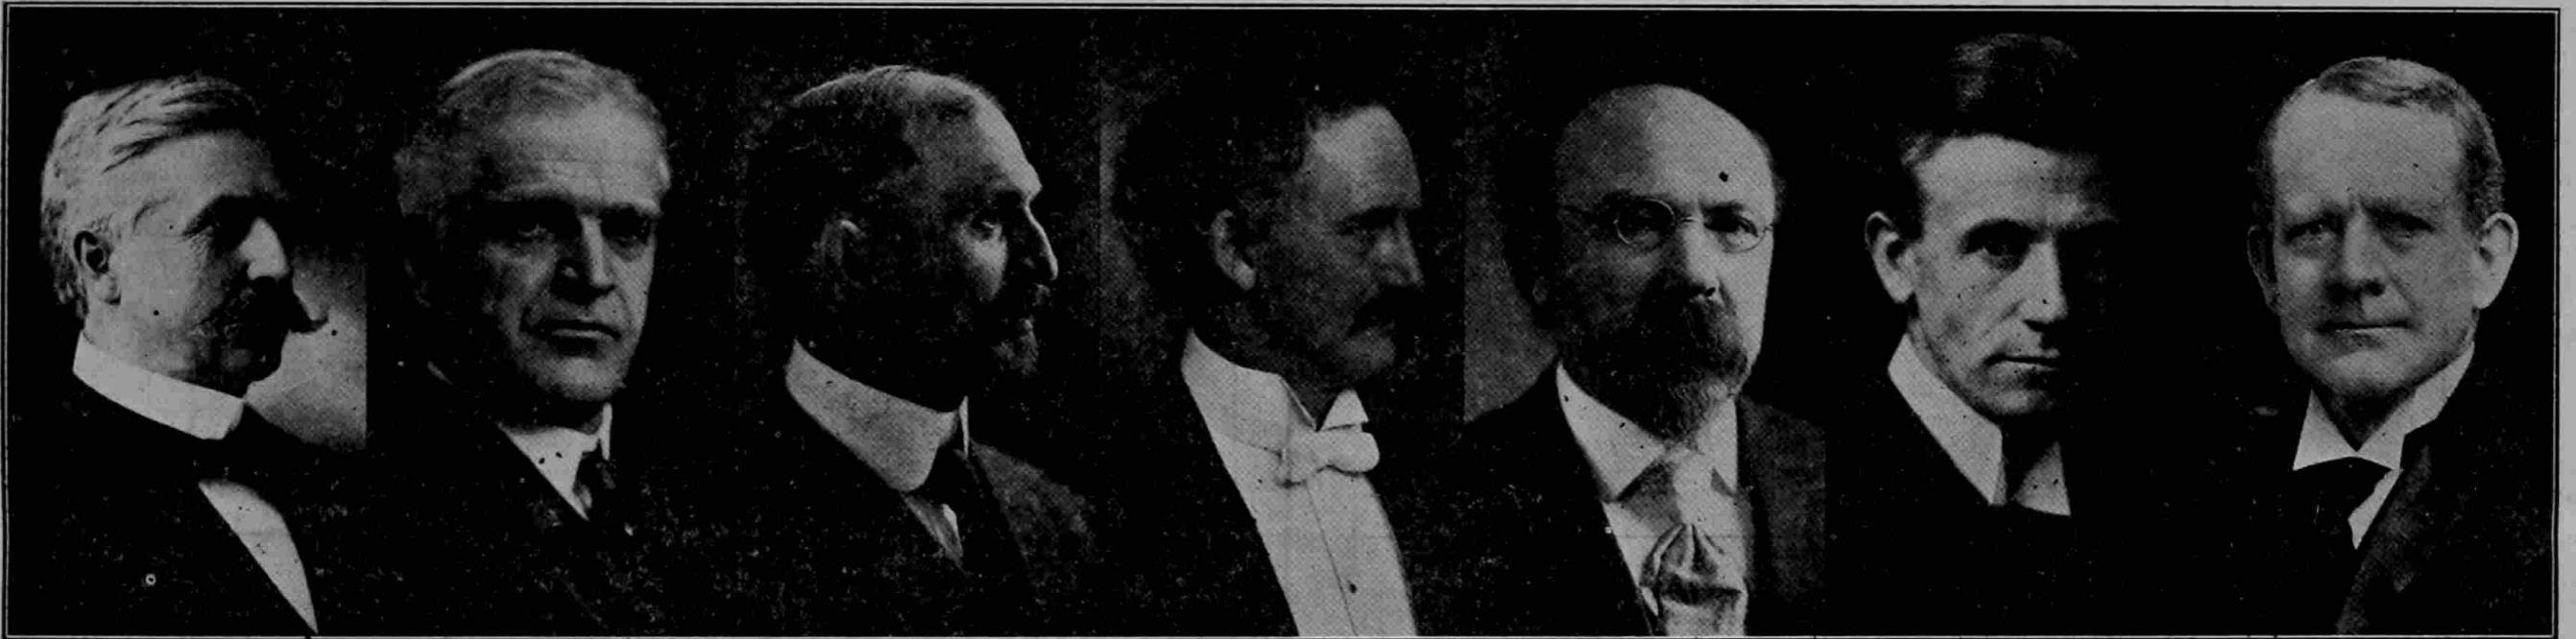

COME EARLY. There are 80 opportunities for doubling your money here.

Oakland Realty Company Land

Magnificent Views. Fine Air.

Great Opportunities to Secure a Home in the Country Near the End of the Oakwood Street Car Line.

The East line of the Oakland Realty Co.'s land is only about a block from the end of the Oakland street car line. The land comprises 120 acres and extends south and west to Lime Kiln lake. From the brow of the hill Howard lake can be seen in the distance.

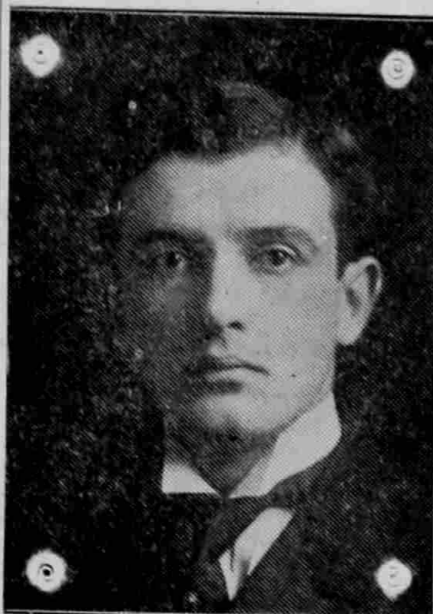

To the west is as pretty a piece of woods as can be found in all Michigan—a beautiful spot for a picnic.

The twenty acres platted by the company and now on the market, practically all sold, is level and attractive. Streets have been laid out and named, the lots numbered, and each decorated with an American flag—typical of the liberty these lot owners will have when they build their homes and own them, free from landlords.

Today this beautiful stretch of high land, only a step from the car line, is a veritable beauty spot. The air, laden with the odor of clover and bringing health and happiness and long life is purity itself.

A few acre lots off to the south and overlooking the beautiful valley, are left—choice places for the tired clerk or office man who wants a little place where he can raise chickens, have a garden and enjoy life.

The view from the high-land is superb. Across the valley can be seen the green fields and foliage, flanked by the rippling waters of Howard lake. It is restful, healthful and delightful. Call on the Oakland Realty Company, 2-3 Folz block, for full information. An automobile will take you to the plat, where you will have a feast for the eye and an inspiration for the soul.

Clarence M. Field.

The most trying of all human experiences are those which attend bereavement through death. Sorrowing friends are at such times acutely sensitive and naturally particular as to the dignity and respectability of the final ministrations. There is a desire to proceed with due regard for the social importance of the departed and at the same time with the modesty and the delicacy befitting the solemn duties. These conditions require sympathetic consideration on the part of the professional funeral director, who must in addition to the intimate service incident to sanitary procedure in accordance with the dictates of science and municipal regulations so proceed with his arrangements that there will be no worry for the afflicted and no annoying oversight or negligence during the obsequies.

Clarence M. Field, 1330 Portage street, has a reputation founded upon first class training along this line and efficient service rendered in Hyde Park, Chicago, while with C. H. Jordan & Co., and he has also proved to the public the same degree of efficiency, since locating here for himself. His equipment is elegant and complete in every respect, having purchased the best of everything that this wide experience in the city of Chicago taught him for the upbuilding of his profession.

His management of obsequies is quietly methodical and always in accordance with the wishes of those who are directly interested; moreover, his charges for service are invariably moderate.

Mr. Field has just returned from Peoria, where he attended the 33rd annual convention of the Illinois State Undertakers' Association of the middle west. At these meetings which last the best part of a week papers are read by the leading funeral directors of the United States. Short talks by members and general discussions furnish much instruction which works out for the general good of the individual.

HERMAN A. REVA.

The well known tailor at 216 West Main street, has been a resident of Kalamazoo some seven years, and is one of the most popular men in Kalamazoo. He is head of the Knights of Columbus, and a prominent Elk.

In business circles he has always given complete satisfaction as a tailor, and strives to please his customers.

He has the latest novelties in styles and guarantees first class workmanship.

A PLACE WHERE PEOPLE REALLY LIVE.—NOT MERELY EXIST.

One of the loveliest residence spots anywhere in the vicinity of Kalamazoo is to be found at Comstock—that charming suburb of Kalamazoo—in Brookside Park. The lots are large—66x132 feet—and ideally located within a few minutes ride from the business center of Kalamazoo by interurban.

Comstock is as fine a place to live in as one could possibly desire. It is located only two miles from the city limits of Kalamazoo and the train service by electric is excellent.

The electric cars pass the front of the plat and the back is bounded by the Kalamazoo river. The scenery is very attractive and altogether there is no suburban proposition offered by anyone that will compare with this. Prices are reasonable and the easy payment plan makes it a snap for any man to secure one of these desirable lots at a comparatively small figure.

You will not have to wait five or ten years for your property to develop, as all advantages are right on the ground. 36 electric cars pass this plat daily and stop within a few rods, also local passenger trains on M. C. R. R.

The running time to Comstock is 12 minutes on the limited and 18 minutes on local cars, and the fare is 5 cents to regular passengers.

The public school here has received national distinction on account of its excellence. All twelve grades are taught here with special instructors in music, manual training and domestic science.

The new Peer building, a strictly fire proof structure is about completed at a cost of over $14,000 and contains several stores and a large Auditorium with fine floor for lodge gatherings and dances.

Streets are well lighted every night in the year until twelve o'clock.

Current for both power and light is available.

Remember the plat of Brookside Park is right near the center of these advantages. No need of going from one to three miles to get to school, church, business places or to street cars.

A beautiful park right on the plat of about one and one-half acres has been given to the public, and extends along the high river banks, for public playgrounds and park purposes. A number of motor boats are now on the river and lots in this part of the plat are going fast.

More than 11,500 square feet of cement walk and street crossings have been completed and 400 maple shade trees have been planted on the plat.

Pure drinking water of the finest quality is easily obtained at about 20 feet.

Streets are all fifty feet wide with 30 feet graded roads.

Where can you find such advantages as above and that are NOW ON THE GROUND?

the town cannot be equalled in our charming city; a bracer to go to work by, restful and cheering on the return home.

CRIME OF HITTING SOFTLY

Former President Roosevelt writes in his autobiography:

Traps were set for more than one of us, and if we had walked into these traps our public careers would have ended, at least so far as following them under the conditions which alone make it worth while to be in public life at all. A man can of course hold public office, and many a man does hold public office, and lead a public career of a sort, even if there are other men who possess secrets about him which he cannot afford to have divulged. But no man can lead a public career really worth leading, no man can act with rugged independence in serious crises, nor strike at great abuses, nor afford to make powerful and unscrupulous foes, if he is himself vulnerable in his private character. Nor will clean conduct by itself enable a man to render good service. I have always been fond of Josh Billings' remark that "it is much easier to be a harmless dove than a wise serpent." There are plenty of decent legislators, and plenty of able legislators; but the blamelessness and the fighting edge are not always combined. Both qualities are necessary for the man who is to wage active battle against the powers that prey. He must be clean of life, so that he can laugh when his public or his private record is searched; and yet being clean of life will not avail him if he is either foolish or timid. He must walk warily and fearlessly, and while he should never brawl if he can avoid it, he must be ready to hit hard if the need arises. Let him remember, by the way, that the unforgivable crime is soft hitting.

A PROGRESSIVE CONGRESSMAN.

(From the Charlotte Republican).

Dr. Roy O. Woodruff of Bay City, whose meteoric rise from an obscure dentist to the halls of congress within two years; the mayorality of his home town representing the only intermediate political substation between the dental forceps and the congressional directory, was in town Tuesday from Eaton Rapids, his boyhood home, to Washington via Montreal, Vermont and an eastern trip. Dr. Woodruff spent the day with his lifelong friend, Harry C. Carr; called on Editor Ellis of the Leader in whose shop he worked as a "devil" twenty years ago, met a number of former Eaton Rapids and Charlotte friends, and spent a thoroughly delightful day.

For lunch the distinguished visitor was entertained at the Congregational parsonage by Rev. Patchell, a former Bay City divine, for whom he has an affectionate regard.

"Eaton county will always find me a good booster," Mr. Woodruff told O. E. Packard. "I always tell my friends Eaton county has got just a little something on any other locality I know anything about."

"I speak advisedly," said Mr. Woodruff, "when I say there is no chance for this so-called get-together program suggested by these various conferences of Republican progressives, Republican national committee and other kindred organizations. The get-together program, if you analyze it, simply means the continued control of the old standpat crowd that stole enough delegates to put Mr. Taft across at Chicago. The people have spoken plainly as to what they thought of that wholesale thieving job and they are in no mood to be toyed with. In several states, notably Maine and Pennsylvania, the Republican progressives have moved bag and baggage over to the Progressive organizations, leaving the few standpatters in control of what is left of the Republican machinery in those states. Do you think for a minute they are going to get together? It is preposterous. Republican congressmen in Washington and many of whom cordially hate Colonel Roosevelt, are booming him as the Republican candidate for president in 1916. What does this mean? Simply this: Roosevelt is the strongest political force in this country today. Every one admits his nomination at Chicago last June would have resulted in an overwhelming victory for Republicans. In this connection just take it from me he wouldn't be at Marquette if they had anything on him. Col. Roosevelt is at Marquette defending his good name because he stands for moral and political decency.

"To my mind, the Progressives offer the only honest solution of the tariff. We stand for a non-partisan commission authorized to submit figures showing a competitive and prohibitive tariff on every article and make their figures the law. The Republicans favor a tariff board but their work, at least in the past, has been such that no two Republicans can agree on what it means. For example, Joe Fordney, the last word in protective tariff, refused to support the Republican program during the present special session because in several instances he said the rates were too low—and they were based on the report of the tariff board. The iniquitous cotton and wool schedules of the Payne-Aldrich bill were the creatures of this same tariff board. The country will never have business peace until this tariff question is taken out of politics, and the Progressives is the only party that guarantee to do it. I am no pessimist, but candidly I look for a business lull following the enactment of the Underwood bill, but on the other hand I appreciate the majority have no desire or intent to deliberately interfere with the commercial progress of the country. The people of this country are protectionists, and if the Democratic tariff bill produces even the slightest business tremor it will mean the success of the Progressives in the next national campaign. The people are going to steer clear of the Payne-Aldrich crowd now in control of the Republican organization; the protection Democrats of the south will naturally turn to the Progressives because it is a white man's party, and the battle of 1916 will be between Democrats and

Dinner to the Children of the Republic by Kalamazoo Daughters of the American Revolution

Progressives with the tariff as the issue and Theodore Roosevelt leading the hosts of honest protection under the Progressive banner. Victor Murock, our floor leader in congress, is one of the biggest men in America."

Brookside Park at Comstock

Is a beautifully laid out plat of 83 large lots, nearly all 66x132 feet, or larger, and lies only a few rods east of the main corner, where all electric cars stop, and extends back to the Kalamazoo river.

Electric cars pass in front of the plat and the fare is only five cents to the city to regular passengers.

Nearly three-quarters of a mile of cement walk is being constructed on the plat and about 400 maple trees have been planted. Streets are all fifty feet wide with thirty feet graded roads.

A BEAUTIFUL PARK

has been given to the public by the owner of this plat which extends along the high banks of the river and contains about one and one-half acres. It is planned to use this for public playgrounds and park purposes.

The plat of Brookside Park is laid out with a view to attract home builders essentially, and with the proper building restrictions a good class of homes is assured. No lots will be sold to objectionable people. Pure drinking water is easily obtained at from 15 to 20 feet.

COMSTOCK

is due for a phenomenal growth, as is evidenced by the change that has already taken place in the past year or two. More than 25 new homes last year is going some. Streets are well lighted by electricity and current is available for both power and light. Several stores supply the needs of the residents. The best of schools, a church and good social conditions help to make this an ideal place in which to live and especially to rear a family of children.

AN ANALYSIS.

An analysis of the vote on Justice of the Supreme Court held April 7, 1913, in comparison with the vote for governor in November, 1912, shows many significant features and thinking they might be of interest to you I am submitting same for your information.

There was a loss in April, 1913, in total vote polled by the three majority parties of 22 per cent.

Two counties—Luce and Emmett—showed a gain of approximately 1 per cent in 1913.

Fourteen counties in 1913 lost less than 10 per cent of their vote; 20 counties lost between 20 and 50 per cent of their vote; 7 counties lost more than 30 per cent of their vote two of which (Kent with a loss of 34 per cent and Wayne with a loss of 43 per cent of their vote) are the largest counties in the state.

The total vote and percentage of gain or loss of the parties was in proportion to the perfection of their organization, namely: Republican party, with a good organization, finished first; Democratic party, with a fair organization, second; Progressive party, with little or no organization, third.

Republicans showed 11.37 per cent gain; Democrats 4.22 per cent loss; Progressives 7.15 per cent loss.

These figures teach us that perfect organization is essential to the success of the party and that is what we must use all our efforts towards accomplishing within the next two years.

We also notice from the comparison of figures that as a general rule in counties with the largest cities where the polls closed at 5 p. m., we made a poorer showing, which would seem to indicate that much of the loss in total vote were Progressives who were shop or factory men and unable to cast their vote during the hours in which the polls were open.

We made percentage gains in 10 counties; held our own in 2 counties; lost less than 5 per cent in 22 counties; between 5 and 10 per cent in 30 counties; loss 11 per cent or more in 19 counties.

There should be no complaint from any source at our party showing this spring. When a new party (8 months after the National convention) can fight a second campaign at an "off" season politically—without organization, without the enthusiasm and publicity that always goes with a national campaign, with no method in getting out its vote, and not knowing in the majority of cases who its supporters were—we should congratulate ourselves on our ability to have had, as a party, a total vote which showed our percentage of loss as compared with the total of the national campaign of 1913 as having been but 7.15 per cent.

I think every voter and every believer in the Progressive party principles should feel encouraged to go forward to what would seem to be a certain eventual success.

Sincerely yours,
CHAS. F. HOFFMAN,
Secretary, State Central Committee
Progressive party.

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS JUDGE KNAPPEN.

The Supreme Court has filed its opinion in the celebrated divorce case of Madame Jannaasch Schortt-Dienst vs. Andrew Dienst sustaining the findings of Judge Knappen, and holding that the verbal ante-nuptial contract that Mr. Dienst claims was made by his prospective bride is void.

It was the claim of Dienst that his prospective bride was so anxious to marry him that she agreed to make a will giving all her property to him. This claim Mrs. Dienst denied. Mr. Dienst will have to pay all the costs and Mrs. Dienst is permitted to proceed with her divorce case.

Messrs. Titus, Van Horn & Titus, are attorneys for Mrs. Dienst and Dorr O. French appeared for the defendant, Andrew Dienst.

COLLEGE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

The annual exercises of the Kalamazoo College Alumni association will be held in the First Baptist church Tuesday evening, June 17.

Among the speakers will be Dr. L. C. Barnes, '75, of New York; Rev. M. P. Flakes, of Detroit, and Dr. N. P. Barlow, of Greenville, besides a number of local speakers.

A feature of the ceremonies will be a great reunion of the class of '63 to celebrate the 50th anniversary of their graduation. Fourteen out of the fifteen members of the class are still living.

Fischer's orchestra will furnish musical numbers throughout the evening.

The 52nd annual Albion college commencement will occur Thursday, June 19. Bishop McDowell will deliver the address.

Mrs. Mary Morrison of Constantine is the guest of Mrs. W. L. Tedrow. The Elks' Temple will have additions and improvements costing $3,500.

WEIDENFELLER LOST.

Rep. Charles A. Weidenfeller, of Bloomingdale, mentioned as a candidate for speaker of the next house of representatives, lost out in a decision handed down by the supreme court today. Lynn J. Lewis, of Bangor, who was a candidate for representative on the Republican ticket against Weidenfeller, brought suit against the successful incumbent of the office, claiming damages on the ground Weidenfeller had injured his reputation as an attorney by saying in the campaign that he (Lewis) had offered to withdraw from the race for $200.

Weidenfeller brought the cause to the supreme court on a demurrer, which had previously been overruled by the circuit court of Van Buren county. The supreme court affirms the decision of the lower court and the case will be brought to trial.

STATE G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

THE NURSES' HOME.

To aid in the clearing of the debt on the Nurses' Home, Mayor and Mrs. Connable have offered the use of their lovely lawn and grounds for a lawn fete to be given on the afternoon of Monday, June 16, when Fischer's orchestra will be one of the many attractions. The program will consist of an Irish play presented by a group of Normal students under the direction of Miss Fornerook and a number of dances.

Miss Matie Lee Jones and Miss Frost, also of the Normal, will present their pupils in a series of folk and solo dances that are sure to be interesting and delightful.

Dr. A. W. Bruce, Dr. Edward J. Bernstein, Frank Clark, Bates Clark, Clinton L. Chalfant, Charles H. Garrett, Gordon Herring, and George W. Longwell have formed a Philatelic or Stamp Collecting Society in Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo county supervisors will build a new juvenile detention home.

TIPPLERS WILL NOW BE TAGGED

Tipplers in local option territory are due to suffer advertisement and embarrassment. Each will be placed on record by the Pray bill, signed by Governor Ferris. It directs that all liquor shipped into dry counties or towns must be labeled. The labels will read something like this:

"Deacon Johnson, One Quart Red-eye Rye, for Sacramental Services," or "Farmer Brown, One Keg Headache Brew for Pickling Purposes."

In essence the new measure is a law requiring that shipments of liquor in local option districts must bear the name of the consignee, name of consigner, amount of liquor in package and purposes for which the liquor is to be used.

Added to all this is still another requirement, directing that railroad companies, expressmen and other transportation agencies must keep a book in which all shipments of "boose" must be recorded when received.

The book, the law specifies, shall be open at all times to all persons desiring to inspect it. According to persons supposed to know somewhat of the motive of the law its real intent is to advertise the tipplers out of existence.

The measure does not prohibit shipping of liquor into the dry domain, it merely provides for the proper recording of the liquor movement. An attempt was made when the bill was before the senate to have it so amended that shipment of intoxicating beverages into local option territory would be prohibited, but out of consideration for such of their constituents as like their little "nip" the senators declined to be so severe.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new $25,000 tuberculosis sanitarium and fever hospital, according to F. D. Van Valkenberg, the architect who drew the plans for the city institution.

of sympathy and love than it is today. Statistics disprove any increase of mortal degeneracy. The survival of pauperism is due to the injustice of worn out economic laws that will soon disappear from the statutes. The restriction of families does not of necessity mean race suicide, for we do not forget that the liberties of Rome did not perish when the patrician matrons ceased to become mothers.

Fresh blood came from the provinces and the cry of "Carthago delenda est" still went on until it became a stern reality. History is like the stern lights of a ship. It illumines the wake behind but gives only a faint warning of the breakers ahead. Republics have arisen and in their turn have disappeared beneath the horizon of time, but it by no means follows that ours will meet a similar fate. We cannot always tell when decay sets in as the causes are beyond our diagnosis. We only know that man is better than civilization is higher than ten thousand years ago. The good work is still going on and ten thousand years hence there will be a civilization vastly nobler than we have today. The pessimist may be right in spots but the optimist with clearer vision sees humanity ever on the upward grade. Though every church spire may crumble the true spirit of religion will shine brighter than before. The pessimist trembles when a time rusted statute is stricken down but the nation only grows the faster and the people become more prosperous for its absence. No law will disappear except in the fullness of time. Even the constitution is by no means sacred, and five hundred years hence that instrument would not be recognized by the ablest statesman of today. Change is written upon every law of nature and of man but that does not imply destruction. The pessimist may fear another period known as the dark ages, but he fails to understand that the laws which produced that historic age no longer exist. Humanity is on the upward march and liberty will live when empires shall have crumbled and dynasties be forgotten. There is no room for the pessimist when all nature is so full of sunshine and cheer. Even the grating and ignoble politician is beginning to see the handwriting upon the wall, and the hovel of today will become the happy home of tomorrow.

EDITORIAL

THE TARIFF MUDDLE.

IN 1890, the so-called McKinley tariff was enacted. It was a protective measure, but never had a chance to vindicate itself, for the Democrats campaigned in all the states with tin cooking utensils, and told the farmers that the iniquitous McKinley tariff caused a big rise in prices.

Before the new tariff had an opportunity to adjust itself, a congressional election was held and the Republicans swept from power. William McKinley was defeated for congress in Ohio; his defeat made him governor of the Buckeye state and president in 1896.

Once in power with Grover Cleveland in the white house, the Democrats began to cut and slash the tariff. The Wilson free trade tariff was enacted in 1894; and before it became a law, imports decreased and the government's income from customs decreased. Slowly business became stagnant, and to stem the tide, 16 to 1 free silver coinage was offered as an antidote.

But the Federal treasury was rapidly emptied. Bankruptcy faced the Federal government, and bonds were issued to provide gold for the treasury and to pay the running expenses of the government.

The country revolted against the bad conditions and in 1896 elected Wm. McKinley president. The Dingley tariff was enacted in 1897—a protective measure. It rescued the country from bankruptcy and restored prosperity from November, 1896.

This law was the best in its day, and did wonders for the whole country. From 1896 to 1912, the business world enjoyed great prosperity. The nation's wealth was enormous.

But the protective tariff was abused by some, until there was a widespread demand for a revision downward.

The "Payne-Aldrich" tariff bill was NOT a revision downward as popularly understood, but in many respects another refuge for some of the big interests.

Had the Republican party, or rather the Republican leaders in congress, let the tariff alone and kept the Dingley tariff on the statute books, there would have been no Progressive party, the Republicans would be in power today and the country would be enjoying protection and prosperity.

The Democrats elected their president in 1912 because of popular suspicion that the Payne-Aldrich law deceived the people and fooled the consumers.

The Democrats are now in the midst of tariff tinkering. President Wilson dictated the tariff bill in the national house, and he is dictating it in the senate. The big fight is over sugar and wool. Farm products and cattle were once rescued from the free list and given a small duty, but President Wilson said "no," and back to the dutiable list it goes.

President Wilson is suspicious of the senate and ordered an investigation to ascertain if the stories about lobbyists with graft money were hovering about Washington.

In the meantime the government customs receipts for May were six million dollars less than in April. Treasury officials say importers are waiting to see what the duties will be.

When the business world is in suspense, and don't know what is to be done with the tariff, it "marks time."

This "marking time" proposition stagnates business.

Kalamazoo's paper mills are already feeling the curtailment of business. The Kalamazoo merchants cannot figure it out why business should just now be a little slow.

If the tariff question could be taken out of politics entirely, and all schedules made by a permanent commission, the whole business world would rejoice. That is the program of the Progressive party.

POLITICAL PATRONAGE IS SLOW.

DEMOCRATS of Michigan are getting into a beautiful row over political patronage, in settling the controversies between the original Wilson men and the regular organization, which got into the band-wagon at Baltimore, at the last hour.

All of the nominations affecting Michigan are being referred to Senator Townsend, as a member of the senate committee on postoffices, for a report. He is the sole member of the sub-committee having charge of Michigan nominations. Several of them are being held up, and in some cases the senator says he will not make a report during the present session of congress. This attitude on the part of Senator Townsend, together with the factional fight in the Michigan Democracy, is having the effect of depriving the patronage-hungry Democrats of practically all the federal pap.

"I am preventing the confirmation of Democrats nominated for office which became vacant during the Taft administration, and for which Taft nominated the present incumbents," said Senator Townsend.

Thus patronage and spoils occupy the time of so-called statesmen.

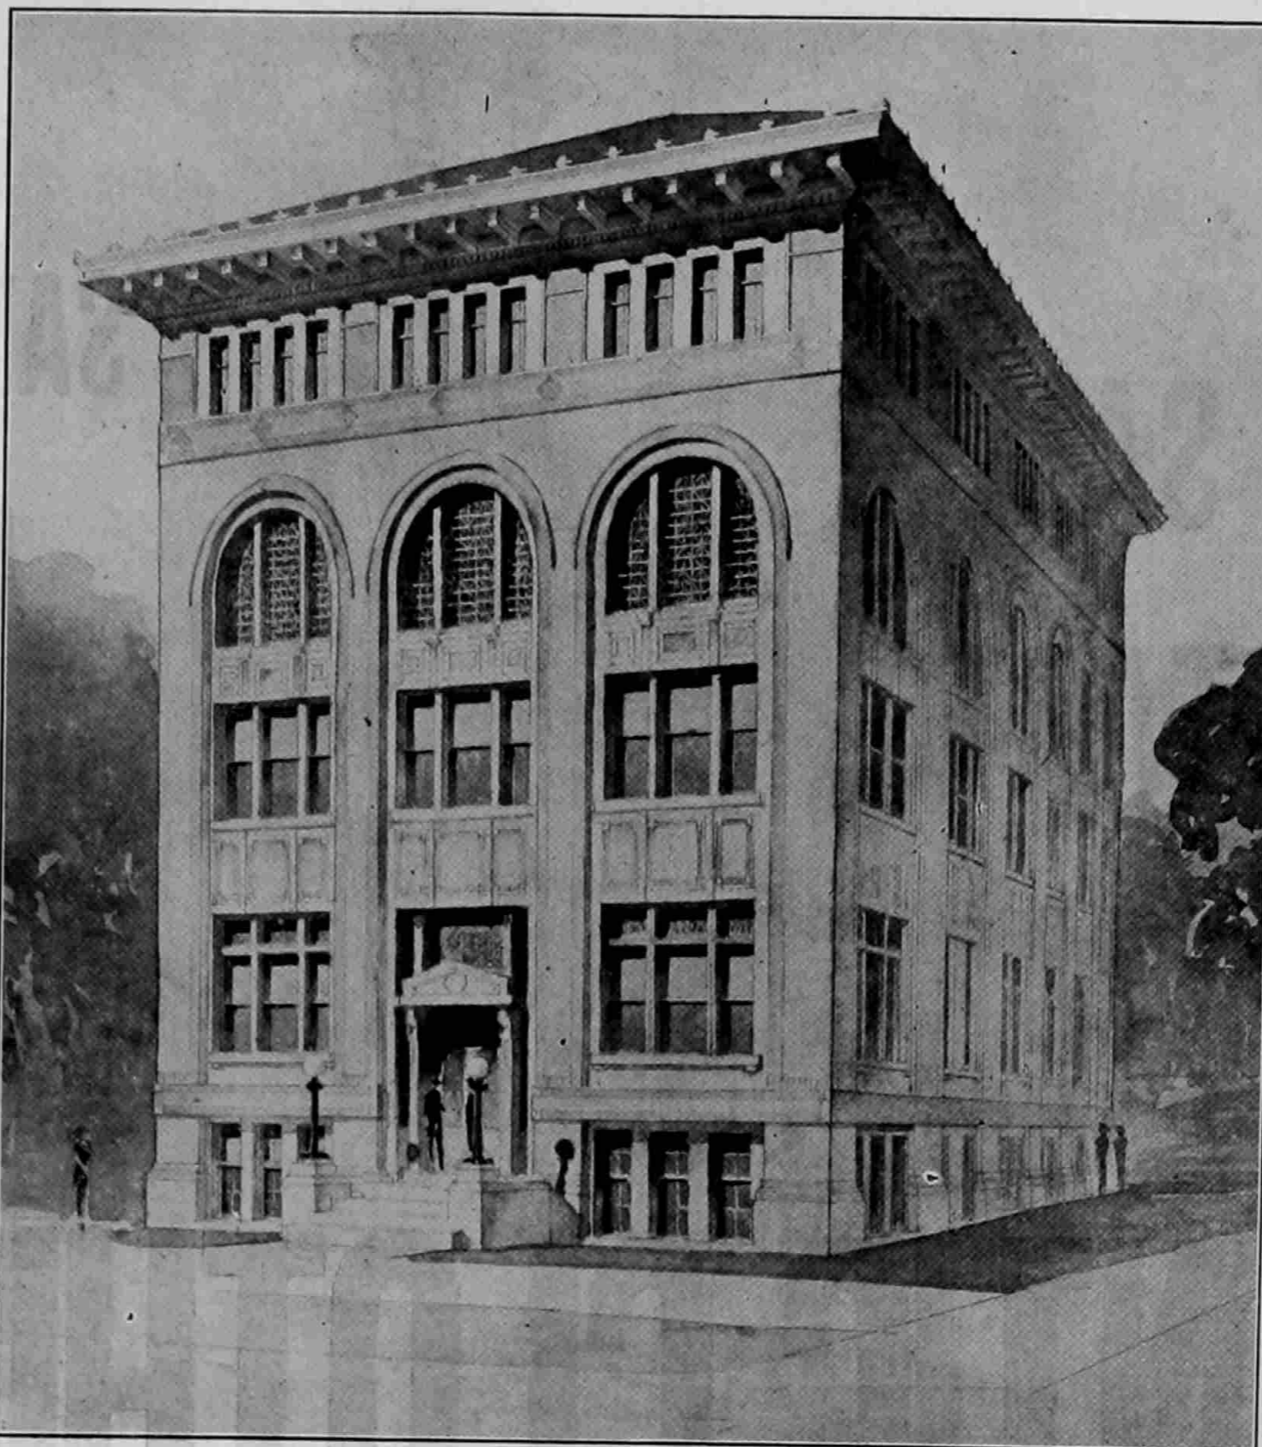

NAME 'EM MR. WILSON.

IF PRESIDENT WILSON has any idea that members of the lobby are, as he says, "misleading" members of congress, through any misuse of money, then it is up to the president to go for the members of congress and the lobbyists together. He should name names.

The president says "there is evidence that money without limit is being spent to sustain the lobby and that the newspapers are being filled with paid advertisements calculated to mislead the judgments of public men, not only, but public opinion of the country itself." Here are two distinct charges, the first of them serious; the second of them is trivial. Men who go to congress are not supposed to be misled by paid advertisements in newspapers. Such advertisements are obvious and are only a repetition of arguments heard elsewhere. Such methods are fair and essential.

The real argument which changes votes on such subjects as the tariff, is reputed to be too often something more concrete than logic. To use money as the president suggests is a distinct crime. Having said as much as he has, President Wilson should say more or less. It will not do for him to make vague insinuations for they are construed as of political rather than of moral impulse. President Wilson has not usually hesitated to tell what he knows. This is a good time to do it again.

PROPOSED MASONIC TEMPLE AT MARSHALL

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Patrick H. Kelly, congressman-at-large, is the single Michigan exception to the general rule of putting new Republicans on several small committees of minor importance. He has been given the place formerly filled by George A. Loud of Michigan, on the committee on naval affairs.

Whether or not Olivet is to have a system of waterworks costing $14,500, is the question to be settled at a special election which is to be held in the village Saturday, June 14.

Stanley Sackett, until recently owner of the Gobleville bank, has become associated with ex-Sheriff Abner Campbell of Kalamazoo, having purchased the interest of M. Myron in the firm of Myron & Campbell. The new firm will be known as the Campbell & Sackett Realty Co.

Mrs. Olivia J. C. Woodman, delivered the Decoration day address at Hamilton. Mrs. Woodman is full of patriotism and made a stirring speech on the theme that was in her mind on that day.

Hon. John T. Winship, who will assume the duties of Commissioner of Insurance July 1, will have several good positions at his disposal if he chooses to make changes at that time. These will include a deputy which commands a salary of $2,500, a deputy fire marshal at $2,000, two actuaries at $1,800, chief clerk at $1,500, and several others varying in and around $1,000 per year.

Thomas Witherell Palmer, ex-senator, president of the Chicago world's fair, ex-minister to Spain, giver of Palmer park and one of Detroit's best known citizens both at home and abroad, died Sunday at his residence in Detroit, in his eighty-fourth year.

The Progressive party in the house of representatives went on record in opposition to the amalgamation with the Republicans proposed in the recent Chicago and Washington conferences of leaders of the Republican party.

THE SENATOR'S "UNGLOVED" HAND.

SENATOR CHARLES EMORY TOWNSEND of Jackson, made a speech in Pittsburg, Pa., recently, in which he said, among other things: "To those who left the Republican party last fall, I extend the ungloved hand of genuine party friendship."

Mr. Townsend defeated Mr. Burrows in the primaries largely because the former was openly a progressive in favor of real progressive legislation.

Mr. Townsend went to Washington, was sworn in; and had as fine an opportunity to be the Dolliver of Michigan, as anybody could ask for.

But he did not rise to the occasion. He fell into the hands of the Philistines, and turned his back on the men in Michigan who made him Senator.

Senator Townsend's "ungloved hand," sounds stilted and pedantic, not to say high-falutin. It does not set well.

Says Senator Townsend: "In the face of the Democratic incompetency, which seems to threaten our progress and prosperity, it is clearly the duty of all men who believe in Republican principles to unite in the common defense of those American policies which have made the United States at once the glory and envy of the world."

This is wholly true, provided some agreement can be reached as to what Republican principles are. If they are the Chicago June convention principles, or the Bay City state convention principles or the Penrose or Barnes principles, nothing will be done.

Already steps are being taken to hold a national convention soon for the purpose of repudiating its platform of last fall, and offering to the country an entirely new one. This is a confession that the "Republican principles" of last November are not the Republican principles of today.

Senator Townsend himself wants an entirely new national committee.

With a new national committee and a really progressive platform, all new, the old Republican party is practically defunct and a new one has taken its place.

Such a party might easily be joined to the Progressive party.

Senator Townsend's suggestion is all right, but the result can never be attained until a new Republican party is born and new leaders placed in the saddle.

But the "ungloved hand" cannot accomplish anything.

TWO VIEWS.

PRESIDENT TAFT vetoed the provision of the sundry civil bill exempting labor unions and farmers' associations from prosecutions under the so-called Sherman anti-trust law.

President Wilson approves this provision. Which view is correct? Is Taft a sound and sane man? Is Wilson a sound and sane man?

Have Reserve Strength When You Reach the Hill
Big men, skilled men, and rich men march on through the sunny streets of life over a pavement that makes no ragged shoes.
At the beginning of twilight of life, the streets become less clear, the way more difficult. The old time endurance is gone.
When we meet a hill, it is an upgrade pull and we are more easily tired. It becomes hard toil.
A reserve cash income from an endowment policy of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Company will just pull you over the upgrade at the end of the journey.

The preliminary treaty of peace was signed at St. James' palace by the delegates of all the Balkan allies and of Turkey. Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, presided at the meeting. The Bulgarian and Turkish peace delegates also signed a protocol providing for the immediate removal of their respective armies from the scene of operations.
